Brain Architecture : Understanding the Basic Plan and Director NIBS Neuroscience Program University of Southern California Larry W. Swanson Milo Don and Lucille Appleman Professor of Biological Sciences,2002-10-23 Depending on your point of view the brain is an organ, a machine, a biological computer, or simply the most important component of the nervous system. How does it work as a whole? What are its major parts and how are they interconnected to generate thinking, feelings, and behavior? This book surveys 2,500 years of scientific thinking about these profoundly important questions from the perspective of fundamental architectural principles, and then proposes a new model for the basic plan of neural systems organization based on an explosion of structural data emerging from the neuroanatomy revolution of the 1970's. The importance of a balance between theoretical and experimental morphology is stressed throughout the book. Great advances in understanding the brain's basic plan have come especially from two traditional lines of biological thought-- evolution and embryology, because each begins with the simple and progresses to the more complex. Understanding the organization of brain circuits, which contain thousands of links or pathways, is much more difficult. It is argued here that a four-system network model can explain the structure-function organization of the brain. Possible relationships between neural networks and gene networks revealed by the human genome project are explored in the final chapter. The book is written in clear and sparkling prose, and it is profusely illustrated. It is designed to be read by anyone with an interest in the basic organization of the brain, from neuroscience to philosophy to computer science to molecular biology. It is suitable for use in neuroscience core courses because it presents basic principles of the structure of the nervous system in a systematic way.

Maths Copy Dr Pulak Puneet, 2020-10-29 The author seeks to take the reader on a slow roller coaster ride down memory lane, halting en route at the stations of childhood, youth and adulthood. He makes the reader visit the mind of an impressionable child who can be distraught over a trivial looking matter, a youth stuck in a demanding situation, a doctor's doubts and redemption, a distressed parent, a responsible citizen and so on, all in different stories. He shares his thoughts over various issues very subtly and invites the readers to search their minds for their own stance on the same. He reminisces about a gifted classmate, muses over life, shares his misadventure as a child and then some more. He has tried to put different colors from his palette on different canvasses in a collection which promises to keep you interested through delicate twists and the occasional surprise.
